

MORE EXCITEMENT IN PHILADELPHIA.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer of Monday.

We regret to be compelled to chronicle further scenes of excitement in Philadelphia county. On Friday night, the neighborhood of St. Philip's Church, Queen street, Southwark, was thrown into great commotion by reports that fire arms had been carried into the building. A crowd assembled, the Sheriff was sent for, and he addressed the multitude. He also entered the church with his posse, took out some fire arms, and soon after a military company appeared, and remained in the neighborhood all night. Considerable excitement nevertheless prevailed throughout Saturday, and on the evening of that day, an immense crowd assembled in the neighborhood of the church. Meanwhile, the authorities had been called upon, and companies of volunteers were stationed as guards, either in the church or neighborhood.

During the evening, several rushes were made towards the church, and these were kept in check by the military. At length, a company, on asking the question, was informed by a superior officer that they could fire, if absolutely necessary. Soon after, this company pointed one of their field pieces, with the apparent object of firing. At this moment, Charles Naylor, Esq., threw himself in front, exclaiming—"For God's sake, don't fire! You will kill innocent people." At least, so runs our information. Upon this, Mr. Naylor was arrested and taken into the church, where he was confined throughout the night—notwithstanding that heavy bail was offered for his release—the parties observing that they had no power to release him, without an order from the principal officer. Several other arrests were also made; and these, especially that of Mr. N., appeared to increase the excitement.

A large crowd continued about the church until a late hour, but the military still kept possession. The Philadelphia Gazette of Saturday evening states that at first, 12 unloaded muskets were found and removed, and adds: "The crowd was unsatisfied, and one or two persons proposed forming a force of fifty men to protect the church. This proposition was not at first acceded to; but at length a further examination of the church was demanded, and seventy-five new muskets were found in one of the rooms, a part of which were heavily loaded."

Throughout yesterday, the excitement still continued, the multitude at an early hour demanding the instant release of Mr. Naylor. This was refused. A portion of the crowd then went to the wharf and brought up a six-pounder, which they pointed at the door of the church. This cannon was said to be loaded with shot and old iron. On this demonstration, Mr. Naylor was surrendered and borne off in triumph. The excitement still continued, and, in about an hour, a second piece of artillery, said to be similarly charged to the first, was brought to bear on the church.

Early in the afternoon, murmurs were heard, because one of the military companies was that of the Hibernia Greens, and a demand was made that they should leave the church. This was not complied with, and the murmurs deepened into groans, the excitement increasing on every hand.

A little before 2 o'clock, the two pieces of artillery were taken round to the back of the church and fired at the building. No one was injured, but the Hibernia Greens then left, and proceeded up Queen street, followed by a crowd, who assailed them with stones and brickbats. Some of the Greens were struck, and after passing up several streets, thus assailed along the entire route, they turned and fired. Upon this, a rush was made after the Greens, when one of them, Robert Gallagher, was seized, beaten, and jumped upon until nearly dead. The Hibernia Greens escaped as well as they could to their home.

During the afternoon, the crowd still continued near the church, assuming a very threatening aspect. Thomas D. Grover, Esq., Lewis C. Levin, Esq., and several other influential gentlemen connected with the Native American party, exerted themselves to the utmost, by appeals and other efforts, to preserve peace and stay the hand of violence. They made several addresses, as did also Col. Jack and Judge Conrad. Matters continued in this state until nightfall. Meanwhile, Gen. Patterson stationed his headquarters at the Girard Bank, and a considerable body of troops had been ordered out. The City and County Police, and the Ward Peace Police, armed, were also on duty.

The foregoing is a statement of the condition of affairs up to nightfall last evening.

Our reporters have returned from the deplorable scenes in Southwark. Just before sundown, a considerable body of troops marched to the ground, under the command of General Cadwalader. A committee of Native Americans, which until that time had held possession of the church, came forward and gave it in custody of the military. After this, a difficulty occurred between Captain Hill and an individual in the crowd, in which others took part. But respecting the origin of the tragic scenes which followed, we have really heard so many conflicting accounts, that it is utterly impossible for us to give the details with confidence. The military, however, fired. Several persons fell dead and others wounded, and among them two or three of those who had just come out of the church, which they had been protecting, as above stated.

The excitement now increased at a fearful pace. A lady, named Mrs. Lyle, was among those wounded, but not dangerously.

Arms were now obtained by a portion of the crowd, and two more pieces of cannon were obtained from the shipping. These were brought up to Front and Queen streets, pointed towards the military, and fired, the people having been previously warned to move away. The military returned this fire with a volley of musketry.

A pause then ensued, but every now and then a discharge occurred. The heaviest, perhaps, took place at about half past 10, when two pieces of artillery were fired in quick succession against the military, and instantly followed by a rolling fire of musketry, evidently from a large body of soldiers. Again a brief pause ensued, only brief, however, for the discharges and volleys, both of artillery and musketry, now came thick and fast. The scene in the immediate vicinity was indeed appalling—wives screaming for their husbands, children for their fathers, and all alarmed and terrified in the extreme. Mangled and dead bodies ever and anon borne along, reports of friends or relatives killed, rushes of the crowd from some false or real ground of apprehension—all bore witness to a frightful drama that was in progress. The loss of life must have been dreadful—but it is utterly impossible, in the present state of public excitement, even to guess at the numbers of killed or wounded on either side. We anticipate with the keenest apprehension the disclosures of the morning—disclosures which will carry dismay and anguish into the bosoms of many families, and make every sensitive mind contemplate with grief and horror the dreadful loss of human life.

At about 11 o'clock, a body of troops, with two pieces of artillery, and headed by the County Horse, marched down Third street, to reinforce the military.

Reinforcements, it is said, had also been made during the night to the other party. But the various accounts are so conflicting, and the reports so numerous, that it was impossible to ascertain the exact facts. We saw several dead and wounded carried off the ground—the wounded to the hospital.

MONDAY MORNING, 2 O'CLOCK.

Small knots of people may be seen along Second and Third streets, at almost every corner between Market and Catharine. They are talking over the affairs of the night, and as may well be supposed, in many cases with much excitement and feeling. A gentleman who has just come up Third street says that he was taken into custody below, having unconsciously gone beyond one of the guard stations of the military.

A report of a cannon has just been heard, the first that has disturbed the silence of the night for an hour and a half. The military still occupy Queen street, in front of the church, and the avenues leading to the building. The Commissioners' Hall, Southwark, has been converted into a temporary hospital, and several dead bodies were there an hour or two ago.

We trust that daylight will bring tranquility and repose, and we sincerely hope that we may never be called upon again to record such painful scenes.

We have this moment been informed that a large meeting has been held in Wharton Street Market, the authentic particulars of which have not yet transpired in this part of the city.

The City Councils held an extraordinary meeting on Sunday evening, and passed resolutions putting funds at the command of the Mayor, and declaring that the civil authorities are justifiable in using whatever force may be necessary in protecting the lives and property of the citizens.

From the National Intelligencer of this morning.

LATER...BY THE TELEGRAPH.

At two o'clock this morning we received the gratifying intelligence, transmitted from Baltimore by the Telegraph, that the city was quiet at three o'clock yesterday afternoon; that the Catholic Church was under the protection of the Native Americans, and the troops withdrawn; and that there was apparently an end to the further shedding of blood as well as the riots.

LATER FROM NAUVOO.

The St. Louis Gazette of Saturday evening, the 29th ult., contains several versions of the horrid affair at Carthage, all agreeing, however, in the death of Smith and his brother; the following extract of a letter from Warsaw contains intelligence about 12 hours later than our last, though nothing additional.

FRIDAY, 3 1/2 P. M.

The Boreas returned to day from Quincy to Warsaw with nearly 500 armed men, receiving by the way the United States arms at Tully. Warsaw has no news from Carthage or Nauvoo since last evening, except a vague rumor that Gov. Ford had left Nauvoo for Carthage. What will be done is yet conjecture.

This morning appeared an extra or slip from the office of the Quincy Whig, of the fallacy of which statements I respectfully beg leave to advise you and the public. It is therein stated that the Mormons had planned the liberation of the prisoner on Thursday. Let us examine this point. Smith had surrendered to the Carthaginian officers, on being assured that violence would not be offered to him previous to an impartial trial by a jury of his peers. Furthermore, had there been numerous Morimons about Carthage, as the extra states, at the time of the assault on the prisoners, the death of the prophet would have been known at Nauvoo as early as at Warsaw; whereas, I am informed that his death was not known at Nauvoo at 4 o'clock this morning.

The extra states that a young Mormon of 19 years, together with the prisoners, fired upon and wounded the guard, thus provoking the commission of the fell deed. Let me assure you that my information is derived directly from the corroborating testimony of several of those who were present, who saw Smith fall, and who, perhaps, directed the fatal deed. Nothing was mentioned at Warsaw, last evening, of the probable purpose of the Morimons to liberate the prisoners. But this I did hear, that the entire Mormon Legion, aided by Gov. Ford's McDonough troops, would have been insufficient to retain Joe's hide shot proof a month longer. I respect the Anti-Mormons rather than the Morimons; yet I respect truth and justice rather than either.

LOCAL NEWS.

SUPPER TO THE FRIENDSHIP FIRE COMPANY.

The Friendship Fire Company of Baltimore, now on a visit to this city as the guests of the Northern Liberty Fire Company, were handsomely entertained last night by a complimentary supper tendered them by the Northern Liberty and Perseverance Fire Companies, at Bakers' Franklin Inn. His Honor the Mayor, and the officers of several of the fire companies were present. Addresses were made by the Mayor, Dr. Magruder, of the Union, John Y. Bryant, of the Northern Liberty, and Walter Lenox, of the Perseverance, which were happily responded to by Mr. Soran, President of the Friendship, on behalf of his company. The company were entertained with songs by Mr. Reily, of the Friendship, and several others, as well as with music by the excellent band which accompanies them. The entertainment closed about 12 o'clock, to the satisfaction of all who participated.

MAD DOGS.—A dog in a most dangerous state of hydrophobia was shot by one of our citizens this morning, on Missouri avenue. Owners of dogs should be particularly careful in having them chained up during the warm weather, as they may thereby benefit the safety of the community, and be secure in the keeping of faithful animals. We suppose that the authorities will take the proper steps for the prevention of accidents from this cause, by ordering their confinement for a specified time.

LATEST FROM PHILADELPHIA.

BY TELEGRAPHIC DESPATCH.

By Morse's Telegraph, we learn that the cars which reached Baltimore at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Philadelphia, brought the intelligence that, during last night, and up to 7 o'clock this morning, all was quiet in that city; and it was generally believed that the riot had entirely subsided.

BY THIS EVENING'S MAIL.

NEW ORLEANS ELECTION.

From the New Orleans Bee, of July 2.

VICTORY!!

Although incomplete, the Whigs of N. Orleans have triumphed handsomely. But for the outrages noticed elsewhere, the vote yesterday would have been overwhelming—the Whigs would have elected every member of their ticket by tremendous majorities. Had the election proceeded legally in any one of the wards in which it was disturbed, every Whig would have been returned. As it is, a majority of our Legislative ticket is elected, and nearly the whole of the Convention candidates. Be of good cheer, Whigs of the Union, Louisiana will do her duty in November.

THE RESULT.

We labored until an early hour this morning, says the New Orleans Tropic of July 2, with the hope of arriving at some conclusion regarding the election. To show the success with which we labored, we append the following calculation, as accurate as any, we doubt not, that will be published this morning.

First Municipality.
First Ward, whig maj.	28	loco maj.	00
Second do	"	no vote	"
Third do	"	09	60
Fourth do	"	5	00
Fifth do	"	0	110

Second Municipality.
First Ward, whig maj.	105	loco maj.	00
Second do	"	120	00
Third do	"	6	00
Fourth do	"	0	58

It was stated that there was a majority of ten votes in the Third Municipality for the Whig ticket. It will be seen, therefore, that the Whigs have a majority in the city, if this statement be accurate, of forty-six votes.

Of course it is impossible to arrive at a just judgment until the official returns are furnished. It is our impression that the entire Whig ticket has triumphed; it is certain that a majority of the Whig candidates have been elected. In the lower municipalities the tickets were "somewhat mixed," and it is possible that three or four of the candidates for the Convention and as many for the Legislature have been defeated. So close is the vote, however, that we are compelled to wait for further advice.

Of one thing the Whigs of the Union may be assured: New Orleans is "right side up," and that the Baltimore nominations have met a noble response.

COLUMBIAN ACADEMY.

FOR SALE, that well-known establishment, the Columbian Academy, situated on 9th, between G and H streets. The lot is fifty-eight feet six inches fronting 9th street, by one hundred and forty feet deep. The building, 49 feet by 35, is sufficiently large to accommodate two hundred scholars, and the lot will allow of its being enlarged to any desirable size. It also has three large class rooms attached to it, all in complete order.

Adjoining the Academy is a handsome cottage, very convenient, and sufficiently large to accommodate a considerable family. The lot belonging to the cottage is fifty-four feet front by one hundred deep. Both the buildings are forty feet from the street, and raised five feet above its level. This is one of the most beautiful and salubrious spots in the city, situated in the Northern Liberties, which for rapid improvement, activity, and enterprise of its inhabitants far exceeds any section in Washington. A few yards to the south of it, on the same square, is situated the Fourth Presbyterian Church, adjoining it on the north an Episcopal Church will be erected this year. On an adjoining square is St. Patrick's Church. In the immediate vicinity is that splendid establishment, the Patent Office, containing the apartment of the National Institute, which has only been in operation a few years, and is not, perhaps, surpassed by any institution in the world considering the time it has been in operation.

In fact, it is hard to find an establishment of superior advantages to that which is here offered, and it may be said with truth, that such a one has never been offered in this city, and perhaps never will be. The Academy might be changed into two beautiful cottages at a moderate expense.

It may not be amiss to mention that there will be soon a fine market in the Northern Liberties. The terms will be accommodating, and can be known on application to the subscriber. If not sold privately before the 20th of July, it will then be offered at public sale.
